Dick Gephardt of Missouri out front in the Democratic primary for president — ahead of a former Madison County resident, Sen. Paul Simon. The poll was conducted Monday night by Regional Research and Development Services at SIUE. According to the poll, Simon beat Gephardt in Madison County but lost in St. Clair County and overall. The researchers contacted 433 registered voters in St. Clair and Madison counties.

Fields angered by rumor

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Don't get in Pete Fields' way if you're the one spreading the rumor about the 1986 joint income tax return filed by he and his wife, Gloria.

"Let them make that charge to me," an angry Fields said Wednesday.

Politics motivates the "low-down group" questioning Mrs. Fields' return, he said.

"I'm bothered by some slime bag rolling around and spreading that rumor," Fields said. "I think it's pretty low when you have to get into my wife's income."

Fields, 42, Glen Carbon, is running for Congress against three other Democrats in the March 15 primary. The winner will face the Republican, Bob Gaffner, in November.

Three persons, all anonymous, have called the Press-Record to say Mrs. Fields' tax information should be reviewed.

The return, voluntarily submitted to the newspaper by Fields, shows that in 1986 Mrs. Fields grossed $11,350 selling real estate. After expenses, including $3,322 listed under "travel and entertainment," the net profit was $1,253.

A certified public accountant who reviewed the form for the newspaper found no disallowed exemptions in the return.

In a race notable for charges and counter charges, Fields said that as county auditor he is confident he could base allegations on the returns of his opponents and their wives, but he will not.

"I could go through their returns to find errors," Fields said. "I wouldn't stoop to that. That's not Pete Fields."

POLITICAL HOOPLA: Students at Granite City High School conduct a mock Republican convention Wednesday afternoon. It was followed by a Democratic convention. Both included keynote speakers, nominating speeches and roll-call votes of each state.

High school students 'nominate' Simon, Bush at mock convention

By Paul Guggina
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Sen. Paul Simon failed in the "Super Tuesday" primaries, but if Granite City High School students could have it their way, he'd be a shoe in as the Democratic Party's nominee.

In a mock Democratic and Republican National Convention yesterday afternoon in the school cafeteria, students acting as "delegates" for each of the 50 states nominated Simon over Albert Gore, Michael Dukakis, Jesse Jackson and Richard Gephardt.

"I would say these kids are pretty representative of the way Granite City would vote," said Philip Shatto, director of the social studies department, who organized the event.

The mock convention followed the same procedure as the actual Democratic and Republican National Conventions, but each student was able to vote for both a Democrat and a Republican.

Of the 261 delegates present, 78 voted for Simon. Gore finished second with 48 votes, followed by Dukakis with 43 and Jackson with 33. Gephardt finished in last place with 31 votes.

"I thought they pretty well reflected what happened last night (Super Tuesday), especially on the Democratic side, except for Simon," Shatto said.

On the Republican side, George Bush was the elected nominee with 136 votes. Robert Dole finished second with 105 votes. Pat Robertson had 16 votes and Kemp had four votes.

Amy Hilderbrand, a junior and the Illinois delegate who nominated Simon, said the result of the actual convention probably won't mirror that of the school's version, but she's supporting Simon all the same.

Simon beats Gephardt in high school's election

"He (Simon) is not going to win but I like him anyway. He's for education, he wants to increase government spending for education, and he's not forgiving aid to the Contras, which is good," said Hilderbrand, who added she learned about the candidate through school work and the media.

Shatto, who has been organizing mock conventions every election year since 1976, said this year's was the biggest.

"I think it was very successful," he said. "I think they had a good time, and most of the students really learned a lot about how it works. At the very least they familiarized themselves with the candidates. A lot of them didn't even know who was running."

To prepare for the convention, students learned about proper parliamentary procedure, wrote their own nominating speeches and keynote addresses and created their own signs and banners with the guidance of Shatto, who knows about conventions first hand — he was a Missouri delegate at the 1984 Republican National Convention, and was at the 1968 convention as a guest.

Shatto said he has noticed a change in the students' opinions over the past 12 years.

"I have found there's more and more of them (students) supporting republicans," he said. "That's not typical of the way Granite City usually is, but there seemed to be a little more enthusiasm for the republicans today."

Shatto said the mock convention is useful as a teaching tool and a way to get students interested in current events.

"High school students I don't think are as interested today as they were 20 years ago in politics, so I think it's good to do things that might encourage them to get interested."

The convention's "chairwoman" disagreed. Eun Kyung Lee, a senior who is also president of the Social Studies Club, which helped organize the event, said students are very interested in politics.

"Just look at how excited students can get about something like this," said Lee, shouting to be heard above the din of the crowd. "They really do know what's going on in politics."

Idea for schools dropped

By Paul Guggina
Staff writer

District 9 elementary schools will continue to house kindergarten through sixth-grade students, Superintendent Gil Walmesley said Wednesday.

The Board of Education abandoned a plan to create primary and intermediate schools in the district earlier this month because parents have reacted negatively to the plan, Walmesley said.

"The parents simply did not like the arrangement," he said.

The plan was presented to parents of elementary school children in February during a series of meetings at the district's nine elementary schools.

Under the plan, the schools would have been divided to house either primary or intermediate students. Four schools would have housed kindergarten through third-grade students and four would have housed third-through sixth-grade students. The district's largest elementary school, Prather School, would have remained a kindergarten through sixth-grade school.

"The only objective was to provide a better way to house the kids," Walmesley said. "It would not have saved money, it wouldn't have closed buildings" (See SCHOOLS, Page 8A)

Thomas snipes at Burke over use of fees

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Fees collected by Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke between 1985 and 1987 went to deputy coroners instead of the county because that's the way things were done, Burke said Wednesday.

"I'm as open as I can be on it," Burke, 61, Alton, said. "I've got a record of who got what on everything ... That money did not go to me. I'm not worried."

Burke said approximately $6,000 in fees collected from 1985 through 1987 went to deputy coroners, a practice questioned by Burke's opponent in the March 15 Democratic primary, Bob Thomas, 44, Granite City.

"I think her thinking is wrong," Thomas said Wednesday. "It appears she's ignorant of the law, and she's county coroner and that's a pretty serious situation."

"I knew that they (Thomas) were going to come up with anything they possibly could at the very end" of the campaign, Burke said.

An Illinois statute, following a list of fees collected by the coroner's office, states, "All of which fees shall be certified by the court."

Burke said the fees were not certified. She said she would ask the state's attorney to issue an opinion about how the money was spent.

"I don't think it's read that way," Burke said. "To me it's something else. I'm not exactly sure. I guess I'd have to look into it."

Under county law, fees collected by county offices go into the General Revenue Fund, said Oswald Mata, manager of financial systems for the county auditor's office, but Mata said he does not know if the county specifically requires the coroner to turn in fees. County Board Chairman Nellie Hagnauer also did not know, Hagnauer said.

McLean County Coroner Bill Anderson, secretary of the Illinois Coroners Association, said the statute does not clearly state collected fees go to counties. Fees he collects as coroner are turned into McLean County, he said.

Burke said money was distributed to deputy coroners based on work they did on inquests. She said what they were paid did not cover their expenses.

"We charge people for copies ($2 per page) of the coroner's inquest. That money had been going to deputies who went out on the inquests. That was the only money they got," she said.

Giving the fees to deputy coroners ended this year, Burke said, because a court reporter is now involved in inquests. The money goes to the county to help pay for the service.

Thomas fired a second allegation at Burke on Wednesday, saying she did not collect money for an estimated 200 inquests and inquires done from December 1984 to Sept. 14, 1985.

"We tried to collect. We tried," Burke said. "If you can't collect them, you can't collect them. That's all there is to it."

By statute, the coroner can charge $3 per page for photo copies, $30 for autopsy reports, $5 for a copy of a coroner's jury verdict, and $15 for toxicology reports.

"Only a complete, independent audit of the office of coroner will show how much revenue Mrs. Burke has deprived the taxpayers of Madison County of in her 16 years in office," Thomas said.

"He's really getting dirty, isn't he?" Burke asked.

Matoesian in 3-way court race

Two circuit judges and a lawyer in private practice are seeking a Democratic nomination for appellate judge in the 5th Judicial District. The candidates include a Granite Citian.

The March 15 victor will win a spot on the Nov. 8 ballot to seek to replace Appellate Judge Charles Jones.

ROBERT H. HOWERTON of Carterville is a circuit judge in a nine-county circuit in Southern Illinois.

Howerton graduated from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in 1965 with a bachelor's degree in political science.

In 1968, Northwestern University School of Law awarded him a juris doctor degree. While at Northwestern, he was awarded a Ford Foundation fellowship for the study of criminal law.

He practiced law from 1968 to 1972 in Williamson County, where he specialized in personal injury cases.

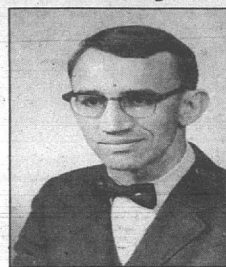

Elected Williamson County state's attorney in 1972, he was re-elected in 1976. He was appointed a circuit judge in 1979, re-elected in 1980 and retained by the voters in 1986.

Howerton was a precinct committeeman in Carterville, president of the Williamson County Young Democrats and a member of the executive committee of the Williamson County Democratic Party. He is an adjunct professor of law at SIUC, where he teaches trial advocacy.

Howerton teaches for the State's Attorney's Legal Training Commission on Trial Advocacy and teaches litigation at gatherings of the state and national bar associations.

He is an editor of the Criminal Justice Newsletter of the Illinois State Bar Association and has written for Litigation Magazine for the American Bar Association.

Howerton said he expects the

Robert Mays
Not recommended

issues before the appellate court to be crime, environmental matters, retaliatory discharge, preferential hiring, prevailing wages and consumer fraud in insurance contracts.

A.A. "ANDY" MATOESIAN, 50, Granite City, a circuit judge, has been a trial judge in the Third Judicial Circuit, which includes Madison County, for 22 years.

He has presided in criminal and civil cases and has been chief criminal judge and chief circuit judge. He is currently serving in the law degree from Washington University in St. Louis.

Matoesian took undergraduate work at the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University and received a law degree from Washington University in St. Louis.

He said his main concern if he becomes an appellate judge will be the large backlog of cases, especially in criminal and family court cases.

"Those kinds of cases affect

Andy Matoesian
Recommended

so many people," he said. ROBERT E. MAYS of Aviston is a former East St. Louis city commissioner and is now in private practice in East St. Louis and Aviston.

He has a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Illinois and a law degree from St. Louis University.

Mays said recent convenient forum or "venue shopping" rulings by the Illinois Supreme Court will limit the number of cases filed in Madison and St. Clair counties, and therefore the number of appeals to the Fifth Appellate District.

Nevertheless, he expects there will be a substantial caseload and a large backlog.

"We are a litigious people and always have been," Mays said. "The area is growing, and society changes. You are still going to find a lot of litigation."

Lawyers recommended Matoesian and Howerton. Mays was strongly not recommended.

'No boards' law

would be 'toothy'

GRANITE CITY — A proposed ordinance to make it illegal to board up buildings within the city limits is "part of a continuing effort to put teeth" into city laws, 4th Ward Alderman Dan Farney said.

The proposed ordinance calls for a fine of from $10 to $50 per day for violations. Temporary boarding up after a fire or other extensive damage would be permitted, but for 90 days only. The ordinance will be on final review at the March 16 council meeting.

"There is nothing that destroys a neighborhood like boarded-up buildings," Farney said.

Explosion injures six,

hinders production

GRANITE CITY — Production continues at Granite City Steel's basic oxygen furnace building following an explosion that injured six people at approximately 5 a.m. Saturday.

One of three injured men who returned Monday to work, Donald Beyer, 36, Collinsville, explained what he believes happened, saying the problem started when a water-cooled oxygen lance broke and fell into a vessel containing molten slag.

"Water and steam were everywhere. It just poured out from up on top where the lance broke off," Beyer said. "It would have been all right, the water would have just evaporated if they had left it alone, but when they pulled out the lance, the water ran into the hole it left and got under the slag ... the water got steam under the slag."

Allen claims Haine,
Weber made deal

Democratic Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen has defended himself and his administration from an attack leveled by former state's attorney Don W. Weber, who is running unopposed in the Republican primary in an effort to regain the office.

A Weber press release accused Allen of grandstanding in the office, inept management, neglect of duties and failure to carefully screen new employees for the office.

Allen both refuted Weber's charges and called into question Weber's strategy. "I find the timing of the Weber's press release to be very interesting," Allen said.

"The only possible, reasonable explanation for this is what I have said all along: Don Weber and Bill Haine made a deal between themselves last fall," Allen said.

Minority groups lauded

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville chapters of the National Society of Black Engineers and the Society of Women Engineers are recipients of awards from McDonnell Douglas Corp., St. Louis.

Gerald Kirby, senior employment representative for the corporation, has just awarded $400 to the NSBE and $500 to the SWE for their dedication to SIUE's Minority Engineering Program and for the number of blacks and women who graduated from SIUE's School of Engineering and have gone on to careers at McDonnell Douglas.

The women's society will use its award for scholarships, and the black engineers will use their award to help send students to the national NSBE conference.

Hartford Library

Mitchell area to vote on joining library district

Residents of Hartford, South Roxana and unincorporated areas of Chouteau Township will vote March 15 on a proposal to expand the Hartford Library District.

There will be no increase in taxes for Hartford residents, who currently pay a rate of 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation for library services. The referendum will require a "yes" vote from Hartford residents to pass.

Residents outside the village will be asked to approve the referendum that would increase their taxes by 15 cents per $100. A property owner with a home valued at $30,000 and assessed at one-third its value, $10,000, would pay an additional $15 in taxes annually.

The proposed annexation would extend to eastern and western boundaries of Chouteau Township and include South Roxana and Mitchell, with the exception of Mitchell School.

On the north, the district would include the village of Hartford, and then extend south from Madison Avenue in South Roxana to the northern boundary of Nameoki Township and ### Pontoon Beach.

The Hartford Public Library became a district last year, and has been offering services to unserved residents of the area at no cost, said librarian Gwen Duke. The increased cost has been picked up by the state.

If the referendum is approved, the state will continue financing for an additional year. Taxes for library services would not be levied until 1989.

The proposal would allow residents within the district to use their cards in all of the 31 libraries within the Lewis and Clark Library System, Duke said. Residents of most unserved areas within the system must pay a $25 annual fee for use of the libraries.

The district is to be supervised by a board of directors to be elected at large throughout the service area.

The annexation referendum has the endorsement of Chouteau Township Supervisor Morris Miles, South Roxana Mayor Dan Wilcox, Hartford Mayor Charles Hendricks and members of the village boards.

Hotel room tax would raise funds for promotion of tourism in county

A proposed 3 percent tax on hotel and motel rooms throughout Madison County would raise about $134,000 to promote tourism in the county.

But the tax faces opposition and may be reduced to 2 percent under a proposal in the board's Legislative Committee.

Bob Doerr, executive director of the Greater Alton Twin Rivers Convention and Visitors Bureau, said the tax would be paid by people who rent rooms in area hotels and motels. The proceeds would be used to promote the area.

The room taxes already in effect in Alton would be raised from the current 2 percent to 3 percent under the original proposal.

Doerr said his organization and a similar group headquartered in Collinsville are backing the proposal. Collinsville collects a 5 percent hotel and motel tax.

The bureau, made up of motel and hotel managers from Alton, strongly favors the additional tax.

The proposal will come back to the Madison County Board March 16 after a study by the board's Legislative Committee.

Legislative Chairman Alan Dunstan said some motel owners in Highland and Troy don't like the tax.

Dunstan said residents in Highland and Troy are concerned that all the money may go to promote areas such as the Great River Road near Alton and the Cahokia Mounds near Collinsville.

Madison County Board Member Fred Dalton of Collinsville introduced the proposal, and the board referred it to the Legislative Committee.

Dalton also said he heard negative comments from a hotel owner in Edwardsville.

Dunstan said committee members feel a 2 percent tax would raise sufficient money. He said original estimates of revenue were based on room rates of $22, which members feel is low.

The committee also would impose a two-year time limit on the tax, so that the board can have time to see if promotions can be done for the entire county, not just Alton and Collinsville.

Dunstan added, however, that the full board may still approve the 3 percent tax.

Doerr said the money can be used to obtain matching grants from the state.

He said the tax on room rentals in Alton brought $32,000 in matching funds in 1986 and $65,932 in 1987.

The money is used to pay for advertising in newspapers, television and radio, as well as brochures and other promotions, Doerr said.

Medicine Shoppes host screenings

On Tuesday, March 15, Medicine Shoppe pharmacies nationwide will launch a free national diabetes screening in an effort to find people with undiagnosed diabetes.

The screening is being conducted to support a nationwide "American Diabetes Alert," a one-day event being organized by the American Diabetes Association. The ADA's plan: To help identify one million people in the United States currently unaware they have Type II Diabetes.

On March 15, ADA affiliates and chapters will be distributing a free written health test with the help of local businesses and community groups. The test includes nine questions, plus a self-grading scale to help people determine their risk for diabetes.

More than 700 Medicine Shoppe pharmacies in 48 states will provide written health tests. In addition, Medicine Shoppes will offer a free fingerprick diabetes screening for high risk participants — people with scores of 50 or more on their written test.

Anyone found to have a potential problem will be advised to seek further medical attention from a physician.

Diabetes is a disease in which the body does not produce or properly use insulin. Insulin is the hormone the body needs to convert food into a form of sugar (glucose) that supplies the energy required for every action, from pumping blood to thinking and running, a spokesman said. Thus, the lack of insulin causes glucose to build up in the blood, resulting in complications.

About 11 million Americans have diabetes, nearly one in every 20 people. An estimated 10 percent of diabetes victims develop the disease when they are children or young adults. These people usually must take insulin every day, by injection.

The majority have Type II diabetes, which often is treated without insulin. Symptoms develop in middle age and may relate to changes in the body due to obesity, pregnancy or the use of some medications.

TRACEY'S TIPS

Are there faucets in your home in which the flow of water seems restricted. If so, possibly an aerator is clogged. Aerators are stringer-like devices attached to the end of the faucet spout. Over time, particles in the water become lodged here. However, a normal aerator flow can be easily restored by unscrewing the aerator, cleaning the small openings with a toothpick and flushing with water.

Help, police ... never mind

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON — As they say in the movies, "This is a matter for the police." Well, not really. But that's what the folks at Lanter Refrigerated Distributing Co., 8 Caine Drive, thought when they called Madison police last Friday afternoon to report the theft of a truck loaded with candy.

Twelve minutes later they called back to say, like "Emily Latella" on Saturday Night Live years ago, "Never mind."

The "missing" truck was still there, parked in the loading bay.

Somebody found the paperwork still in the warehouse office quite awhile after the truck was already loaded. It turned out the driver had fallen asleep in the truck's cab.

Jeff Lanter, warehouse manager, was understandably reluctant to talk about the incident and didn't want the story printed.

"We just panicked," it was explained.

$2,000 tavern burglary

The El Capavaro Lounge, 800 Jackson St., was burglarized in the early hours of March 2. The intruder took $2,000 in cash, cigarettes and assorted beer and liquor supplies.

Trucker robbed

Charles J. Damico, 39, a truck driver from Glenmore, La., told police he was robbed of $25 early on the morning of March 2. He said he did not see the bandit, who held a pointed object in his back and demanded his money and wallet.

Robbed at truck plaza

Ted Barault, 41, a truck driver from Toronto, Canada, told police that two women entered his truck and stole $110 from him on March 6 at the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza, 699 Illinois 203.

Wrong-lane car alleged

Benjamin C. White, 32, 385 Niedringhaus Ave., was arrested at 1:30 a.m. March 4 while allegedly driving in the wrong lane of the 1100 block of State Street. He was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and was released on cash bail.

Goskie's store robbed, two suspects charged

Goskie's Market, a convenience store at 1520 Fifth St., was robbed of $90 worth of cigarettes by two men Jan. 30.

Police later arrested and charged with robbery Michael Y. Terrell, 27, 1041 Calhoun St., Venice, and Gregory L. Calhoun, 30, 307 Adams St., Brooklyn. Terrell was also charged with possession of instruments adapted to the use of controlled substances.

Tavern burglarized; $4,400, pistols missing

An unknown person forced his way into Karl's Korner, a tavern at 1242 Iowa St., in the early hours of Feb. 9 and made off with $4,400 in cash and three pistols, police were notified.

An investigation is continuing.

Driver robbed by woman

John Fletcher, 31, a truck driver from Laurel, Miss., told police he was robbed on Feb. 16 of $78 in cash and miscellaneous credit cards by an unknown woman at the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza, 699 Illinois 203. No arrest has been made.

DUI police

Police arrest man after giving warning

Fred H. Tanner, 37, 722 Iowa St., Madison, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving without headlights at 2:57 a.m. March 5 after his car was stopped by an officer at 22nd Street and Lee Avenue.

The same officer first saw Tanner slumped over the wheel of his car with the engine running in a store parking lot at Niedringhaus and Madison avenues at 2:45 a.m., it was alleged.

The patrolman said he turned off the engine and awakened a sleeping man, who was asked not to drive; the officer offered to call someone to take him home.

Several minutes later, the car was seen going east on Niedringhaus, near 22nd Street, without headlights. Tanner agreed to take a breathalyzer test and was charged after posting $102 cash and his driver license.

Hospital fence damaged by truck, driver charged

Kip E. Simpson, 19, 2112 Lynch Ave., was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident Feb. 26.

Simpson was driving south in an alley in the 2000 block of Washington Avenue when his truck struck a pole and he lost control, allegedly striking a fence owned by St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

When an officer arrived at the scene the truck was lodged in the fence and about 30 feet of fencing appeared to be damaged, reports said.

Simpson agreed to take a breathalyzer test and was released after posting $302 cash bail, pending an April 14 appearance at the Madison County Court House in Edwardsville.

Driver charged with DUI

John J. Yurkovich, 25, 2928 Faith Ave., was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Feb. 26.

The arrest occurred after a concerned motorist, who had been following another car, reported a driver's actions and a description to an officer.

The patrolman checked for the auto in the vicinity of Bromley Avenue and East 24th Street and found a car parked in a private driveway in the 2200 block of East 24th Street.

Yurkovich, the driver, was asleep with the car's lights on and the engine running, it was alleged. He agreed to take a breathalyzer test and was released on bail.

Though there's considerable interest in restoring old buildings across the country, one problem limits the ability of a shortage of artisans to do the job. Few craftsmen are available who know old building techniques.

The only way to remove mildew from the grout between ceramic tiles in a shower is with a strong bleach/detergent/water solution that will kill the spores. To keep the problem from returning, improve ventilation.

To create a make-believe "brick" effect on walls, trim a sponge into a brick shape, then dip into color glaze. Neatly "print" with the sponge onto solid-color wall, leaving space "mortar" between the "bricks."

Air leaks around the house let heat out and cold in during the winter, and raise cooling bills in summer. Use weatherstripping around doors and windows, caulking around faucets and other cuts into the surface.

A "certificate of title," issued by a title company or written by a lawyer, indicates that a seller has a marketable and insurable title to the property he is selling, but it does not offer as much protection as a title insurance policy.

OPEN LETTER TO VOTERS IN MARCH 15th PRIMARY

I have not endorsed a candidate for public office since I worked for John F. Kennedy in 1960, when I was at an age that most of the children I taught in Pre-School are today.

But this year, there is a contest that I feel strongly about. That is the Democratic contest for Coroner of Madison County.

I have been a resident of Madison County all of my life. I have worked with the youth of our county through Pre-School, the dying and their families through Hospice, and now the elderly through the Walk-On Program. I care about all citizens of Madison County.

Because the Coroner is charged with the duty of investigating every suspicious death that occurs in Madison County, it is an office that is important to each citizen of Madison County. It is an office that should be conducted like an important county office. I was shocked to learn that it is now run out of the back room of a funeral home in Alton.

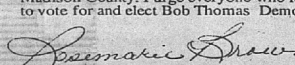

There is one candidate who has pledged to professionalize the office of Coroner and to place that office in a County Court Building, where it will be responsive to each citizen of our County. That candidate is Bob Thomas. Bob has pledged to bring the office of Coroner of Madison County out of a back room in Alton and into the 20th century.

Bob Thomas, who is a lifelong resident of the Quad-City area, is thoroughly trained in all modern forensic investigative techniques, and he has pledged to use that training to help local police departments in their investigations.

Bob Thomas has pledged to conduct complete and thorough inquests into each suspicious death. He will conduct these in a County Court Building, not in a funeral parlor, where they have been conducted for the past 16 years. He has pledged to cross examine witnesses at inquests, when necessary, in order to provide all available information to the States Attorney's Office.

I know Bob Thomas, and have worked with him, first with Hospice and now with Walk-On. He is a man of his word. What he promises to accomplish as our Coroner, he will accomplish. Mrs. Burke has had 16 years to modernize and professionalize the office, but has failed to do so.

On Tuesday March 15, I am going to cast my ballot for Bob Thomas for Coroner of Madison County. I urge everyone who feels the same concerns that I do about our county to vote for and elect Bob Thomas Democratic Candidate for Coroner of Madison County.

One of four seeking Supreme court nomination

SPRINGFIELD — Three circuit judges and a lawyer are candidates for the Democratic nomination for Illinois Supreme Court justice from the sprawling, 37-county Fifth District.

The vacancy opened up for the first time in 18 years as a result of the retirement last September of Justice Joseph Goldenhersh of Belleville.

The candidate nominated for the $93,000-a-year position on the seven-member court will seek a 10-year term.

Running in the Democratic primary on March 15 are Madison County Circuit Judge Horace Calvo of Glen Carbon, who is currently serving by appointment; Randolph County Circuit Judge Carl Becker of Red Bud; Franklin County Circuit Judge Robert Hill of Benton; and East St. Louis attorney Charles J. Kolker.

The candidates declined to discuss specific types of legal issues that come before the Illinois Supreme Court, such as the controversial "convenient form" doctrine that has been invoked to throw out personal injury lawsuits brought by Madison and St. Clair counties that involved accidents elsewhere.

The candidates cited the provision in the state Canon of Judicial Ethics which barred them from discussing issues that may come before the court.

As a result, they cited only their experience in running for the Supreme Court.

CALVO, 60, formerly of Granite City, was a member of the Illinois House for seven years before becoming a judge, and argues it gives him an edge in qualifications over his opponents. "When you've been in the General Assembly making laws, it gives you some advantage when you're interpreting them later," he said.

Calvo resigned from the legislature to accept an appointment as circuit judge in June 1975. Since last October, he has also served by appointment on the Fifth Appeals Court, where he has written about 20 opinions so far.

Calvo said his judicial philosophy was "very similar to Justice Goldenhersh's and he tried to do what is just and humane."

Calvo has received several endorsements from labor union political committees and Democratic party officials. But he said he is not relying on organizational backing. He is meeting with many people as he can and has visited "nearly all the counties" in the district.

Calvo received a "recommended" rating on the Illinois State Bar Association poll of lawyers in the district. He received an overall score of 78.52 out of a possible 100. Lawyers rated judicial candidates according to integrity, temperament, legal ability and court management.

BECKER, 60, has been a judge for 25 years. He said his experience in handling a wide variety of cases at the trial level over that period of time "gives me insight into all the problems that come before the Supreme Court."

Prior to becoming a judge, Becker worked for Chicago Title and Trust Co. and engaged in private law practice about three years.

He describes himself as "realistic and practical about things," adding, "I suspect people would consider me more conservative than Justice Goldenhersh on criminal law," noting he has imposed the death penalty twice. Becker said he believed he was a "centrist" on civil law and said, "I've never been accused of being a judge or a defendant's judge."

"I've tried about everything that can be tried. Because my

Chapman only Democrat recommended for Karns appellate court nomination

Three circuit judges are seeking a position on the Democratic ballot for the Fifth Appellate Court bench seat being vacated by Judge John Karns Jr.

They are Charles W. "Bill" Chapman, 46, of Edwardsville; Krause and Stephen Kernan. CHAPMAN, 46, earned a bachelor's degree in chemistry from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1963.

He earned his law degree from the University of Missouri in 1967, working as a research chemist at the John Cochran Veterans Hospital in St. Louis from 1963 to 1967.

After graduating from law school, he was a law clerk for U.S. District Judge Omar Poon in Springfield for one year.

He was a private practice attorney in Granite City for 12 years and was appointed a circuit judge in November 1979. While working as an attorney, he completed his master's degree in economics.

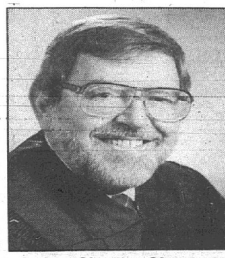

As a judge for the past nine years, Chapman has heard both civil and criminal cases and served for one year as chief criminal justice officer.

Chapman serves on two Illinois Supreme Court committees: the Ad Hoc Committee on Discovery Procedure and the Supreme Court Committee on Protracted Litigation.

The discovery committee has been in existence since 1983, and every rule it has suggested has been adopted, Chapman said. The protracted litigation committee has been in existence only a short time.

Chapman also has taught trial advocacy at St. Louis University Law School since 1982. He has taught discovery, evidence and medical malpractice litigation at bar association seminars.

In 1984, he was named out-

Judge Charles Chapman

standing state trial judge in the United States by the Association of Trial Lawyers of America.

He expects complex cases with multiple plaintiffs and multiple defendants, he said.

"We are going to see more and more of the types of cases with multiple plaintiffs and multiple defendants," he said.

KRAUSE, of rural Mount Vernon, is in his 10th year as a circuit judge in Jefferson County.

He holds degrees in industrial and chemical engineering and worked in private industry until he was 36. He obtained a juris doctor degree from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Krause was an accountant for Union Sarch & Refining Co. and an engineer at McDonnell Douglas.

He was also an assistant Illinois attorney general in the office of inheritance taxes for two years. While a judge in Jefferson County, he has heard cases ranging from traffic, to child claims, and to capital murder.

Krause does not claim to have written any learned articles for legal publications. "I don't write; I just work," he said.

One concern he has about the appellate court is the backlog of cases. "It takes years at a time to get appeals back to the circuit court," he said.

He also said voters in his county are concerned about "over-representation on the appellate court bench from Madison and St. Clair counties."

KERNAN, of Belleville, is a circuit judge in St. Clair County. At 40, he is one of the youngest circuit judges in the state.

He has a bachelor's degree in marketing from the University of Notre Dame and received a law degree from Washington University in St. Louis.

He served as a lieutenant in the Army Quartermaster Corps. He was one of his major concerns in 1972 and was appointed an associate judge in 1974. At that time, he was the youngest judge in the state.

In 1977, the Illinois Supreme Court appointed Kernan a circuit judge. He was elected to that position. He was retained by voters in 1984.

In 14 years, Kernan has heard every kind of case, including personal injury and criminal. He presided over the trial of convicted murderer David Davis and sentenced Davis to death.

Kernan acknowledged the backlog of cases on the appellate court. "One of my major concerns is handling the appeals as efficiently as possible."

He does not recommend Chapman, do not recommend Kernan and strongly do not recommend Krause, the Illinois State Bar Association said.

Arsenic traces found in grave

By Rick Arnold and Carole Gass Hill

Investigators say traces of arsenic were found in the grave of Frank Mihfeld, fourth husband of Joan Hensley Davis, 54, of Mascoutah. Davis is charged with murder in the alleged arsenic poisoning death of her fifth husband, James H. Hensley, formerly of Granite City.

The Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation is keeping mum concerning an investigation into Mihfeld's death.

DCI spokeswoman Jean Crenshaw said "no information is being released at this time."

The body of Mihfeld, who died in 1977, was exhumed from the Marcus Memorial Cemetery in Fredericktown, Mo., June 9, 1987, at the request of the Illinois state police, said Madison County, Mo., Coroner Jay Hunsman.

"They said they were investigating the possibility that Mihfeld's death was a homicide," Hunsman said. Madison County Sheriff Gary Asher said he did not know the results of the test.

Dr. Michael Graham, of the St. Louis Medical Examiner's office, was present at the exhumation. He said he had traces of arsenic were found in Mihfeld's casket and in the soil around the casket.

He also said the arsenic may not have contributed to Mihfeld's death, which was believed to have been from a blood disease.

A relative of Mihfeld's said he suffered from high blood pressure.

No charges have been filed against Davis in the Mihfeld case.

Hensley died March 8, 1986. In another development related to that case, a preliminary injunction was issued March 1 against Davis preventing her "from in any way selling, transferring or disposing of any real estate and assets of Hensley's or those she jointly owned with Hensley."

One of his major concerns is handling the appeals as efficiently as possible.

He does not recommend Chapman, do not recommend Kernan and strongly do not recommend Krause, the Illinois State Bar Association said.

He also said the arsenic may not have contributed to Mihfeld's death, which was believed to have been from a blood disease.

Both men came up behind him and one asked for a light for a cigarette, later drawing a 38 caliber snubnose revolver from the waistband of his pants and pointing the weapon at him.

"If you have any money, you'd better hand it to me," the gunman told Bemin, who gave the man $22. The robbers then fled on foot, east on Broadway.

The man with the weapon was dark-skinned and bearded, about 5 feet, 8 inches tall and wearing a black and red windbreaker. The second man was about 5 feet, 11 inches tall, had a medium complexion and wore clothing that included a yellow sweatshirt.

All-terrain vehicles affected by new laws

Motorists who operate all-terrain vehicles (ATVs), off-highway motorcycles, pedal-cyclers and mopeds, among other vehicles equipped with fog lights have new laws to be aware of, according to Illinois State Police Director Jeremy D. Margolis.

Under the new laws, the operation of an ATV or off-highway motorcycle is prohibited on any street, road or highway with one exception: Drivers of such vehicles may cross a highway provided that the crossing can be done safely.

However, before attempting to cross any road, the driver must first make a complete stop and yield the right-of-way to all vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

Margolis said, "The legislation defines an ATV as any motorized vehicle weighing 600 pounds or less, having a width of 50 inches or less, and traveling on three or more low-pressure tires."

An off-highway motorcycle is a motorized device designed to travel primarily off the highway on two wheels.

Required changes that were contained in the new laws:

• Require operators and passengers of motorized pedal-cyclers to wear seat belts.

• Add farm machinery to the list of those vehicles required to have headlights and two taillights visible from at least 1,000 feet during periods when lighting is required.

• Require that all driving lights be turned off within 500 feet of a vehicle approaching from the opposite direction.

• However, properly adjusted amber fog lamps were exempted from this provision.

Auto burglars enter five parked vehicles

Five vehicles were entered by burglars on Feb. 26.

The dashboard was torn apart and an AM-FM stereo cassette player was stolen from the 1987 auto of Solastine Johnson, 608 Lincoln Ave.

Dianne Seldon, 516 Mercedia Ave., said her car was burglarized at her home. A citizen band radio and $15 cash were taken from one auto and a radio was missing from another car.

John Williams, 532 Washington Ave., reported an attempt was made to remove the radio from his car.

Pritchard was also charged with not having a valid driver license. When he allegedly broke away from the patrolman's hands, Pritchard tried to leave, he was booked for resisting a peace officer.

Lorraine Lovin, 27, 215 Abbott St., who was with Larry W. Pritchard, allegedly grabbed an arm and pushed other officers at the scene. She was charged with obstructing a peace officer and was released on $25 bail.

LOOKING FOR THE CAUSE OF MISERY

When searching for a cause of most of our misery, we need only travel as far as the nearest mirror. There gazing back at us from that slick glass surface is the culprit. As Pogo used to tell us from the comic section of the newspaper, "We have met the enemy and we is it."

Yet, when most of us are miserable, when things go wrong, the last place we look is at ourselves.

We first try to blame our misfortune on "luck." We never get any of the breaks. It's always the other guy who is lucky. Our failure is not due to mistake, but rather to mischance. While I will admit that luck plays a real factor in the human experience, anyone who goes through life not expecting some ill fortune is living in fantasyland. The important element is not that ill fortune will occasionally visit us, but rather how we deal with it when it does. Miguel De Cervantes wrote Don Quixote when he had the bad luck to be in prison, and some of the best of O'Henry's short stories were written in prison. Bad luck is a poor alibi for misery, because good luck, in and of itself, never guaranteed happiness.

Next we try to escape personal responsibility by blaming our heredity or our environment. We can't help what we are, this is what nature gave us to work with and we can't rise above it. How could anyone expect us to be anything but miserable given these circumstances. Nonsense, everyone is given a unique combination of heredity and environment upon which to build his life. What you choose to make of that unique blend is strictly up to you.

Misery or happiness don't come from without, they come from within. Only we have the power to determine whether to be miserable or to be happy.

Most of us have cellars in our house, but we don't choose to live in them. We choose to live upstairs, where the light can brighten our day and the sun can warm us.

While each of us has miserable times in our lives, none of us needs to be a miserable person. Just as we choose not to remain in the dark and gloom of the cellar, we can choose to rise up into the brightness and warmth of happiness. To do that, don't blame luck or circumstances for your misery, simply walk over to the nearest mirror and place the blame where it really lies. Then do something about relieving that misery.

BOB THOMAS
President

State's Attorney

Dear Friends:

I have known Madison County State's Attorney DICK ALLEN for many years. He is a life-long resident of Granite City and has made many contributions to the community. As Granite City residents, we should all be proud to have Dick representing our community as a State's Attorney. He has a record of many accomplishments including the collection of over $5 million in back child support to shift the burden of support to the fathers, NOT the taxpayers. He has prosecuted over 3,000 felony cases which have resulted in sending the criminals to prison for a cumulative total of over 2,500 years. A murderer, responsible for the deaths of two of our citizens, has been sent to prison for life, with no chance of parole.

I am going to the polls on March 15 to vote for Dick Allen as our candidate for State's Attorney. I encourage all of you to do the same. We know Dick and he knows us. Let's keep DICK ALLEN in office as our Madison County State's Attorney.

and it would not have cost us teachers."

Many parents were opposed to the plan because they feared their children would have to travel farther to get to school, Walmsey said.

"They objected mainly because they were foreseeing at some point down the line that their kids would have to go farther away to school," Walmsey said. "That was their biggest concern and obviously they felt very empathic about it."

KOLKER, 47, began practicing law in 1988 after six years as a junior high school teacher in East St. Louis. He was president of the teachers union.

"highly successful personal injury practice" and would be a "voice for the poor and working class" on the Supreme Court.

He pointed to recently retired Seymour Simon of Chicago as a model of an outstanding Supreme Court justice. Simon frequently dissented from his colleagues in many of the high court's opinions.

Kolker said his lack of experience as a judge was not a disadvantage and "being a judge can separate you from people."

He said he was an "independent candidate who doesn't owe any allegiance to any party boss at all."

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

When a man and woman obtain a divorce, sometimes they will agree to joint custody arrangements with regard to the children. In these situations, a question may later arise as to how one parent can modify this joint custody agreement. This desire for change may arise because one parent wishes to move to another state, which would make a joint custody arrangement unworkable.

Illinois law provides that after the expiration of a two-year period following a custody judgment, a court can modify a joint custody arrangement if certain conditions are met. A court must find by clear and convincing evidence that a change has occurred in the circumstances of the child or in the circumstances of either or both parties having custody. A court must also find that a modification is necessary to serve the best interest of the child.

In one recent case, the mother and father obtained a divorce in 1983. The mother and father lived within six blocks of each other, and they agreed to a joint custody arrangement. Subsequent to the divorce, the parties actually shared physical custody of the boys. The children never spend three or four days with their mother and they would then spend three or four days with their father.

Approximately three years after the divorce, the father became disenchanted with his job. He decided that he wanted to move to Florida. In addition, he met another woman and married her in 1986. She obtained employment in Florida, and the father wished to move there to look for work. The boys expressed a desire to live with their father and their stepmother out of state.

The father petitioned the Court asking that the joint custody arrangement be modified. He felt that his remarriage and his plans to move to Florida plainly represented a material change in circumstances warranting a termination of the mother's custody rights. The Court refused to modify the joint custody arrangement. The Court felt that a stable environment is as important as the desires of the boys in determining their best interest. The court went on to say that many of the advantages which the father had testified would be available in Florida were merely expectations and not certainties. The Appellate Court noted that the parents had shared physical custody and parenting since the divorce, and the father's removal request would alter the boys' environment in a material way.

Information will be available on how to transfer from the Granite City Campus to one of these senior institutions and on the availability of financial aid for GCC students.

BAC transfers good students

Belleville Area College transfer students do as well or better in the classroom than native students at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

BAC transfers have a mean grade point average of 2.71, compared to 2.50 for students who spent their first two years at the Carbondale school, according to SIUC statistics for the 1986-87 academic year.

"I think one can conclude that the community college transfer student can and does compete well academically," said Thomas E. McGinnis, director of SIUC new student admissions services.

BAC is the fourth largest community college feeder, with 244 students to Carbondale.

"BAC does an excellent job in preparing its students," said Dennis Sparr, BAC dean of counseling and a former university transfer student from the community college. "It's obvious, since our students have always performed well at Carbondale."

The college has articulation agreements with all Illinois state universities as well as many public and private colleges and universities including Washington University, St. Louis University and the University of Missouri-Rolla.

Under articulation agreements, an associate degree automatically satisfies senior schools' freshman and sophomore general studies requirements.

Sparr cited several advantages for beginning an academic career at BAC. Sparr said:

Cost — Tuition is $28 per credit hour, among the lowest of all area higher education institutions.

Location — The college brings higher education to every area of the 2,100 square mile district. There are campuses at Belleville, Red Bud and Granite City and extension centers in 16 other communities.

Experienced faculty — Classes are taught by a qualified faculty (16 percent with Ph.D.s). There are no graduate assistants.

Endorsements: new, old

The Illinois primary is Tuesday and several persons in contested races have earned your support.

STATE'S ATTORNEY: Bill Haine, Alton, is challenging incumbent Dick Allen, Granite City, for the Democratic Party's nod in the state's attorney race. Ordinarily, Allen, being the "hometown boy," would have the inside track on getting our support, but not this time. Haine has our endorsement.

Bill Haine

Haine is favored because he is right in stating plea bargaining on serious crimes is unacceptable. The public, particularly victims, should see an end to the light sentences and probations handed out for serious felonies. The public deserves Haine.

Haine is backed by the Madison County Democratic Central Committee, the Collinsville Herald-Journal, the Alton Citizen-Journal and other groups.

CONGRESS: Mike Mansfield is our choice for Congress. Mansfield has been there—as chief aide to U.S. Rep. Mel Price—and knows how to operate in Washington; Mansfield's record is clean; and Mansfield understands the importance of military defense to the economy of this financially troubled district.

AUDITOR: Fred Bathon, Madison, is the only person running for the job who has experience in the office. He is a former deputy auditor and worked to develop the computer programs with which the office operates.

Bathon, city treasurer in Madison, has proven ability as a man who knows how to handle money. He is endorsed by the central committee.

RECORDER: In the three-way race between incumbent Rink Lucas, Collinsville Township Supervisor Terry Allan, and County Board member Dan Donohoo, we favor Donohoo. So does the Central Committee and the Herald-Journal. Donohoo is a certified public accountant, a businessman, a public official and plans to modernize the office with the help of a computer.

CORONER: In the coroner's race, we make no endorsement. Incumbent Dallas Burke, Alton, and challenger Bob Thomas, Granite City, are both capable of doing the job.

COUNTY BOARD: We endorse the incumbents, Don Garrett and Frank Dutko.

Judges hoping to move up

With Quad City, voters set to help decide seven judgeships in 1988, Republicans are unopposed for five nominations next Tuesday. The other two posts attracted to GOP primary candidates, but the party could choose nominees by write-ins or other means.

Democrats are unopposed for three nominations and there are only write-in candidates for another judicial position. But lively competition has developed in the 37-county Fifth District for one Supreme Court and two Appellate Court nominations.

Quad Citizens could support local or former local judges for all three of the contested nominations, and many will do just that. Each of the three hopes to move one rung higher on the judicial ladder: Horace Calvo and three others filed for the high court, Andy Matoesian and two others are running for the Jones appellate vacancy, and Charles Chapman and two others are seeking the Karns appellate vacancy.

A vote for Chapman is fully justified. He was recommended by lawyers, who rated his two foes as not, and strongly not, recommended. Chapman was named the most outstanding state trial judge in the nation in 1984.

One of Matoesian's opponents, Robert Mays, is strongly not recommended by fellow attorneys. Both Matoesian and Robert Howerton of Carterville have fine credentials and could serve ably. Howerton has party backing but we lean toward Matoesian because of his greater independence. Matoesian could assure direct Granite City representation on the appellate bench, as provided in the past by George Moran and then Calvo.

For the Supreme Court, split 3-3 politically in the other parts of the state, a close November race seems likely between Republican Thomas Welch and the Democratic nominee, Calvo has much legislative and judicial experience and Carl Becker of Red Bud also is an attractive candidate, slightly more conservative than Calvo.

Important for all to cast vote

One of the most complex ballots in recent memory has been assembled in an orderly fashion by Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, so there is every reason for voters to participate. It is their chance to help the party of their choice select the best possible group of candidates for the Nov. 8 general election.

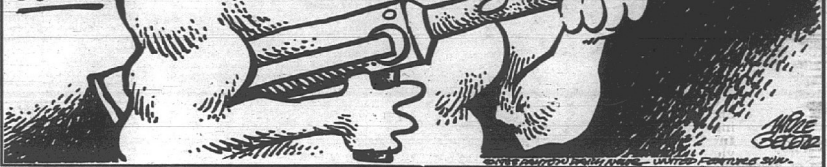

Quad Citizens will vote on presidential hopefuls, including their home area's Paul Simon. Nominees also will be chosen for Congress, the Illinois House, five county offices, the County Board and seven judicial positions. In each party, presidential delegates and precinct committeemen will be elected.

Voters will decide whether to increase the tax rate limit to assure continued operation of the Madison County Sheltered Care Home, whether Granite City should annex the Gorge residential subdivision, and whether the Mitchell area should join the Hartford Library District.

The primary has created much interest, judging by the volume of letters received (many more than could be published). All congressional candidates attracted support and criticism, with Pete Fields getting the most backing.

Voting hours Tuesday at the 66 polling places here will be 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. We hope to see everyone there.

Letters

Responds to Grzywacz's letter

To the editor:

A letter which appeared in the Feb. 28 Press-Record/Journal from Ron Grzywacz has prompted me to write this letter. First there is a correction I would like to make clear about my uncle, Christ Costoff, whom Mr. Grzywacz refers to as a very great man who never made it out of grade school, had no education at all and, by no means, had great records.

My uncle went to school in Bulgaria where his education would have been the equivalent to the sophomore year in high school here in the United States. This may be confusing to Mr. Grzywacz as, when my uncle came to this country, my uncle entered the first grade to learn English.

In addition, Mr. Grzywacz struck a familiar chord with me. All my life, I saw both my aunt Maxine and uncle Christ work for the Democratic Party. These two people helped others get food, work, wheel chairs, doctors, etc., and often didn't know the very people they were helping.

That is a record of action. Seeing these two people work side by side for a greater good than themselves, the Democratic Party, is a record of action.

This can be attested to by the fact that every Democratic president and nominee, from FDR to Jimmy Carter, has had personal communication with Christ and Maxine Costoff.

Mr. Grzywacz also said, "It takes friends and their families to get us all elected in politics." This is very ironic and frustrating to hear from Mr. Grzywacz, as well as others. It frustrates me and angers me, as if all you have to do is mention Christ's name and that will help you in an election.

When my uncle passed away last year, Maxine was left alone. The "friends," with few exceptions, were never there, including those in Madison.

All she needed was to know others cared for her. Consoling. It makes me wonder about people who run for office; if you treat your "friends" this way, how are you going to treat the constituents that you've never met?

I've grown up with a template of what a "record" really is. Others will have to decide for themselves. I and my family will support Jerry Costello.

Thomas critical of opponent

To the editor:

I feel that I must respond to an ad endorsing my opponent in next Tuesday's primary election, placed in last week's Press-Record, by three of my fellow funeral directors—Randy Irwin, Ed Werner and Loren Davis—and to an allegation recently made about me by my opponent.

I feel that it should be brought to the attention of the public that Irwin, Werner and Davis are, at present, all deputy coroners for Madison County who serve under the direction and control of the present coroner. In itself, this makes their motives for placing the ad, at least, very suspect and, at worst, self-serving.

My opponent has charged that if I wanted to modernize the office of coroner, as I now propose, why didn't I remain a deputy coroner and suggest the modernization to her?

The truth is, I quit my post as deputy coroner out of utter frustration. Frustration—seeing bodies in Alton exhumed years after the death so that a proper finding of death could be made and murder charges brought against the killers.

Frustration at seeing employees who appeared more interested in obtaining business rather than conducting thorough investigations. And finally, frustration at being asked to certify a death as a suicide after the first deputy on the scene had moved the body and disturbed the evidence and none of the evidence that I had pointed to a suicide. After my resignation, the death was certified as a suicide.

It would have been to my personal financial benefit to remain a deputy coroner. But if I had, nothing would have changed and it would be business as usual at the coroner's office.

I am running for the office of coroner as a concerned citizen of Madison County. But more than that, I am a concerned citizen who has been on the inside and who knows what changes desperately need to be made in the coroner's office. And more importantly, I know how to make those changes.

BOB THOMAS
A Democratic candidate for coroner of Madison County

Candidate not endorsing Allen

To the editor:

I wish to state that I did not and am not endorsing anyone in this election. I am running without any backing or endorsement, or money from any other candidate.

I was asked by an employee of Dick Allen to sign a petition to get his name on the ballot, since the Central Committee didn't endorse him. I believed he was entitled to this.

If I had been asked or told this was going to be an endorsement, I would have never signed it.

Last-minute allegations

Last-minute allegations and counter-allegations make election coverage as much fun as watching a sword swallower with his lungs.

Somewhere someone's going to get the shaft, and if the reporter isn't careful, it could be the newspaper. Here's a "sort of" look into how it happens:

"Hi. I don't want to give you my name, but I've got a little information for you."

"What's that? Is this the Challenger?"

"Never mind that. The incumbent is a wife beater."

"That's not much to go on. Any proof?"

"I've got a case number."

"Well, even so..."

"There's more. He's a known associate of felons."

"Well, I'm not positive..."

"Wait, he's also a dog kicker, a father raper and writes on restroom walls!"

"RESTROOM WALLS! Well why didn't you say so?"

"The next hours are spent in restrooms sitting through graffiti and phone numbers until a suspicious pattern lends support to the anonymous caller's allegation. Then, the Incumbent is called."

"Hello. This is the Incumbent?"

"Who wants to know?"

"Reporter, sir. I'm tracking a suspicious pattern of pernicious graffiti on bathroom walls. You do it?"

"Nope. I'm clean and can prove it. Witnesses will swear I was leading a Salvation Army revival meeting and handing out blankets to orphan kids."

"Oh. That does put a different light on things."

"It sounds to me like the Challenger is trying to pull the wool over your eyes. That's the very thing to expect of a lying income tax fraud like that."

"Income tax fraud?"

"Sure. And he's a sex pervert there, isn't he?"

"COLORIZING BLACK AND WHITE MOVIES! I'll get on it right away."

And so it would go, if we'd let it. This late in the campaign there isn't time to track everything down. So, political allegations relating to the primary will have to find a new home.

But, take heart. There's always the general election.

About real estate

By Don Campbell

Exclusion reversible

Dear Mr. Campbell: My wife and I, both over age 55, sold our home in 1988 and bought another home the same year that cost $3,000 more than the house we had sold.

We had our federal taxes figured by a so-called tax expert and, instead of merely taking the house sale and replacement, he took our over-55 exemption, which was not our intention.

What can we do to reverse that report? Can you tell us if we can do this now, almost a year later? And if so, how much time do we have to do it, and how do we do it? — J.W., Fiddletown, Calif.

Answer: With a tax preparer like that, who needs enemies? I could give you here a little bit, of course, by commenting on the fact that you apparently didn't scan his work very thoroughly, but I won't rub salt in that wound. You are in luck, however. On some of these tax matters, where the taxpayer makes an elective choice, he doesn't have any opportunity to go back and straighten it out.

On the once-in-a-lifetime exclusion from capital gains on the sale of a personal residence (if you are 55 or over), the Internal Revenue Service, happily, is more lenient. In your case you've got three years from the due date of the return to set the record straight.

What you should do is write and sign a request to the IRS asking that the over-55 exemption be revoked. Both of you must sign it, include both of your Social Security numbers and include in the statement the year in which the exemption was erroneously made.

There is no tax consequence involved in this — just as there would have been none if you, as a tax preparer, had done it right in the first place. But keeping that exemption on hand to use at some future date is certainly important.

Dear Mr. Campbell: I would appreciate receiving any information you can give me regarding the "one-time exclusion" rule. I have asked two different accountants and both had different views regarding the new law. — H.D., Allentown, Pa.

Answer: That is odd, because it isn't all that new. As a matter of fact it was one of the few tax provisions affecting real estate that did not get hashed up in the tax "reform" package.

The rule permits the homeowner who is at least 55 years old, and who has lived in the home as his principal residence for at least three of the past five years, to exclude from taxes (when he sells it) all profits up to $125,000.

It is 1988 and time for a new look at what investments are worth pursuing vigorously. High on the list, the fast-buck crowd has found in your home and the resultant savings in mortgage interest. Four painless ways of accelerating payment are explored in our feature: Free and Clear; Getting the Mortgage Market; Stamp and Send; and a business-sized, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $2 to Don Campbell, P.O. Box 2088, Los Angeles, Calif. 90008.

Bell's call-block free service plan approved by ICC

Illinois Bell's plan to offer a free-of-charge service to residents and business customers who wish to block calls to 900 and 976 numbers was approved Feb. 25 by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Illinois Bell can begin offering call-blocking around April 1st to customers in the 312 area code — on a neighborhood-by-neighborhood basis. The company said it would inform customers soon about procedures to follow if they wish to have calls blocked.

"We believe access to objectionable messages without any possibility of customer control damages our relationship and our reputation with our customers, and that this plan addresses this need," said Bob Liggett, Illinois Bell's general manager for residence services.

Liggett said the call-blocking service will be available to customers statewide within four months. He said each of Illinois Bell's telephone switching machines must be reprogrammed to provide the service.

In the 312 area code, the free-of-charge service gives customers three options:

- 1) To block all calls to Illinois Bell's 976 telegrams service;
- 2) To block all calls to 900-number services;
- 3) To block all calls to both 976 and 900 numbers.

Outside the 312 area code, business and residence customers will have the option to block calls to 900-number services only.

The Telegrams service is a public announcement system of tape-recorded messages that includes information on sports, time, weather, stocks, and other topics. Telegrams service messages are available on a local-call basis in the 312 area code.

Liggett reminded customers that once a 900 or 976 call blocking option is chosen, calls to all numbers on the 976 or 900 network will be blocked.

Additionally, Illinois Bell-owned public telephones will be blocked from completing calls to 976 and 900 numbers, Liggett said.

Consumer tips

Some bad credit history can be removed

By Neil F. Hartigan
Illinois Atty. Gen.

Q. What can I do to improve a bad credit history?

A. You are entitled by law to correct any inaccurate information that appears in your credit bureau file. If you have been denied credit, you should contact the credit bureau involved and request the contents of your credit file.

Check to see whether the information reported on you is accurate and complete. You have the right, under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, to dispute the completeness or accuracy of any information in your credit file. When you do so, do it in writing and explain why you think the information is incorrect.

If your dispute is legitimate, the credit bureau then must reinvestigate the matter. If the credit bureau cannot verify the disputed information, it must delete the information from your report.

If you disagree with the results of the reinvestigation, you should write a brief statement explaining your side of the story. Once this is done, it all becomes a part of your credit bureau report.

If the information is found to be accurate, then only the passage of time can assure its removal. Credit bureaus are permitted to report bankruptcies for 10 years and other negative information for seven years. There is nothing you can do to stop or remove the information from your file. Don't be misled by ads aimed at people with bad credit histories.

Q. I'm afraid my small business has just been victimized by some company representing itself to be our regular supplier of photocopier toner and developer.

They called us on the phone and said that because of a price increase, they were going to give us a "special deal" on toner at a much lower cost. When we received the shipment, the bill, however, we found out that we were actually charged a much higher price than we were used to paying. Moreover, this company is not associated either with our supplier of office products or the manufacturer of our copier machine, as we later discovered.

Could this be one of those "toner-phoner" we've begun hearing about? What should we do now?

A. It's possible that you have been taken advantage of by a "toner-phoner." Call Attorney General Hartigan's Consumer Hotline, 1-800-252-8666 (toll free). You may discuss the problem with them as well as the possibility of filing a consumer complaint against the supplier.

Q. Can a bill collector harass me at work to collect a debt?

A. The actions a collection agency or creditor may take in securing collection of a debt are regulated by both state and federal law. Although you may be under an obligation to repay a debt which has been turned over to a collection agency, that agency has no more right to "harass" you than does anyone else.

The federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, as well as Illinois statutes under which collection agencies are licensed, define the conduct in which collection agencies are prohibited from engaging.

An agency must contact a debtor at a time which is convenient to the debtor. Thus, a bill collector contacts you at work and you advise him that it is not convenient time to contact you, he must make alternate arrangements, such as calling you at home in the early evening.

A collector is also prohibited from communicating to third persons the existence of a debt. Thus, he could not leave a message with people at your office which was designed to inform them of your status as a debtor.

A debt collector must cease contact with you when he or she learns that you are represented by an attorney, when he has received a written refusal to pay, or when he has received a written communication requesting that such contact end.

Q. I purchased a car with a 30 day warranty. During the course of the warranty, I experienced transmission problems and returned the vehicle for repairs.

Although the transmission was repaired and worked for a short time, I am once again experiencing the same problem. Since this work is related to problems that should have been repaired, do I have any rights under my original warranty even though the 30 days have run?

A. The rights under your 30 day warranty generally end when 30 days have passed. If a dealer has failed to make the necessary repairs despite your having brought the vehicle for servicing, he remains obligated to perform the repair properly even after the 30 days have passed.

The same warranty extension would apply when a dealer refuses to service the vehicle within the warranty period. If a good faith effort is made, the fact that a problem develops shortly after the expiration of the warranty and shortly after the repair is performed does not indicate failure to comply with the warranty obligation.

Q. A day after purchasing an item at its regular price, the store at which I purchased it put the item on sale. I had heard that there is a law which requires the store to refund me the difference between the item's sale price and its regular price. Is this so?

A. Our office has occasionally received questions regarding such an alleged law. Neither the state nor federal law would require a store to provide a refund in such circumstances, even if store personnel knew the sale would be conducted the next day.

The price tag on an item constitutes the store's offer to sell the item at the price listed. Once this offer is accepted, the sale is final, and the store is under no obligation to modify it.

The story of a little agency that could

A little but mighty agency in Granite City is shaking up the defense industry.

Its targets are some of the biggest companies, including Emerson Electric, and the repercussions from its activities are being felt far and wide.

Helped by other federal agents and by state policemen Feb. 25, a handful of Defense Criminal Investigative Service staff members raided an Emerson plant near the firm's world headquarters in St. Louis County. Evidence was confiscated and the DCIS will consult with federal attorneys this spring over what steps, if any, to take next.

ARTILLERY TARGET Location Vehicles costing $4 million

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

each are the target of the inquiry.

Emerson makes the vehicles for both United States and Egyptian defense forces, and the issue is whether parts intended for America are being used instead for Egypt. The complex machines include missile launch equipment and guidance instruments.

All vehicles seized are being cleared for shipment to Egypt, with the U.S. District Court ordering DCIS tags and padlocks removed. But the investigators say they are continuing their probe, despite an Emerson acknowledgment to the contrary.

NO FURTHER search warrants are planned, both sides concede. Assistant U.S. Attorney James G. Martin says this is no problem because the mission already has been accomplished: "We went in and found what we were looking for."

The manufacturer contends "police state" tactics were used, with agents arriving by surprise, halting production, and even barring company supervisors where agents felt there was interference with their questioning employees.

The DCIS says it was necessary to surround and invade the plant to verify the status of the vehicles and parts, rather than allowing time for anything to be moved or rearranged. There was considerable "shooting" with both video and still cameras. All parties agree that parts may have been borrowed from U.S. vehicles. Whether there was adequate financial reimbursement of the U.S. remains under debate.

AROUND THE REGION: —If you're worried about traffic congestion while repair work is being done on the King and Poplar bridges, you are not alone. "Chaos" is the word being used in Chicago, where $210 million in highway rebuilding work began March 1. The busy Dan Ryan Expressway is being widened from eight to 10 lanes. This year's project on half of the road is expected to take seven months.

The Ryan is the main southern link with Chicago; traffic from six other expressways feeds into it just south of the downtown area.

SORRY, but we're not impressed by the romance that has blossomed between Centralia's Sue Terry and John William Gacy, whose address is Death Row at the Menard Correctional Center near Chester.

Their regard for each other is true love, she says, but not many other people adore him. It was Gacy who murdered 33 boys and young men, burying them under his home near Chicago.

STATE CHAIRMAN Vince Demas, head of the Illinois Democratic Party and a state senator, said Feb. 27 that Paul Simon will win next Tuesday's Illinois presidential primary. He predicted Simon will be chosen to run for vice president of the United States.

With many post offices now closed to the public one afternoon a week, the Postal Rate Commission recommended March 4 that first-class letters cost 25 cents instead of the present 22 cents.

The postage decision will be made this month by the board of governors of the Postal Service.

—NOT ALL presidential campaign "dirty tricks" occurred in the 1970s, Jeanne Simon, wife of candidate Simon, is convinced. She cites the March 7 issue of Newsweek magazine, which said Simon was ready to withdraw in favor of Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, in return for Dukakis paying off the Illinois senator's campaign debts.

Mrs. Simon's comment, "This is really ridiculous. It certainly was never part of our plan," she has said nothing to Dukakis to indicate that.

COULD YOU AFFORD to run a fire department in your neighborhood, meeting all expenses from your own family income? Ed Salmond, Venice Township highway commissioner, can't really afford it, but that's the way he's keeping Eagle Park area firefighting in operation. He said March 1 he had just put out a weed fire that threatened utility poles of the same utility that is urging him to catch up on the department's wintertime bills.

Salmond has talked to mayors and others about the problem, but hesitates to merge his fire truck and garage into any existing, tax-supported fire district.

Eagle Park's response time to suffer, and says most of the families are senior citizens who could not afford to pay a fire tax.

FEET FIRST

By Dr. Claude Hiles

Newborns commonly exhibit all types of overlapping, underlapping, curved, and rotated toes. These conditions can usually be corrected by the application of adhesive splints. It is most often the little toe (fifth) that curls under the fourth toe with the inherited trait of curly toes. Corns and calluses easily develop from these toes rubbing together. If the curly toes are very bothersome, they can be straightened out with simple surgery after the feet have stopped growing. Two other common conditions which may also be inherited are polydactyl (more than five toes or fingers) and syndactyl (toes or fingers that are joined together with soft or hard tissue). Severely webbed toes can often be separated surgically. Moderate webbing is usually left alone. Because a child's feet grow so rapidly during their first year, this time period is considered the most important in the development of the feet. Contact a podiatrist if your child is experiencing a foot problem. Early detection of a foot disorder is essential for successful treatment. My office is located at 1930 State Street and at 5203 Chippewa, Suite 306, and practices state-of-the-art podiatry, geared to prevention as well as treatment. We also specialize in the care of pediatric disorders including foot and bone deformities. Office hours by appointment, Tel. 877-6025, BCBS, John Hancock, Medicare, and most major insurances.

Arch museum dedicated to western pioneer spirit

By Pamela Seibert

The St. Louis Gateway Arch is a world-renowned monument. But many people do not know that underground, beneath the legs of the Arch, there is another monument, a museum dedicated to the American westward expansion.

"Our idea is that people spend some time in the museum, learn something about the story of westward expansion, then take the trip up in the Arch, let that be the culmination of the visit here, not the only purpose," said W. Arthur Mehrhoff, interpretive director for the Jefferson National Expansion Historical Association's Museum of Westward Expansion.

A large stuffed grizzly bear welcomes visitors to the museum. Just inside, is the museum's focus, a life-size bronze statue of Thomas Jefferson, father of the American West.

Overhead in the lobby there are a series of brief quotes from important early American documents: the Preamble to the Constitution, George Washington's farewell address, the Declaration of Independence and a 1795 quote from Jefferson, which reads: "It may be taken for a certainty that not a foot of land will be taken from Indians without their consent."

The museum itself is concaved with events that took place between 1800 and 1900. Along the wall, in a series of plaques, is a year-by-year timeline that lists important events. They are fascinating, and many of them are surprising. For instance, in 1804 the Land Act, in an effort to get western land settled, reduced cash payments for the land from $2 per acre to $1.64.

In 1810, the third census determined the population of the United States to be just over 7 million. In 1822, Clement Moore published his famous "Twas the Night Before Christmas." Samuel Morse invented the telegraph.

Muny Troupe to hold dance, song auditions

Auditions for The Muny Troupe, The Muny's touring establishment of entertainers, will be held from 3:30 to 7:30 p.m. April 2 at City Studio, 4397 Laclede Ave. in the Central West End.

The Muny Troupe, comprised of three male and three female performers, will present songs and dances from well-known Broadway shows from April 20 through May 22 at various shopping malls and senior citizens centers.

Auditionees must be at least 18 years of age and should bring 32 bars of a ballad and 32 bars of a show tune to sing. An accompanist will be provided.

Jazz and tap shoes are required, plus rehearsal clothing, and a photo and resume should be provided if possible.

A BISON commonly called a buffalo by early settlers, weighed about 1,000 pounds. One is on view at the St. Louis Gateway Arch museum.

In 1835, by 1850, the U.S. population had soared to more than 23 million, and the year 1860 marked the first relay run of the Pony Express Mail Service between St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento, Calif. By 1892, the huge influx of immigrants necessitated the establishment of Ellis Island in New York harbor as a receiving station.

Overhead, hang photographs of American presidents and other early photos, such as one showing the building of the Eads Bridge, which opened in 1874. Further on, a large topographical map depicts the route taken by Meriwether Lewis and William Clark in their exploration of Jefferson's Louisiana Purchase. A portion of the text of a letter from Jefferson to Lewis, dated 1803, is also displayed in which Jefferson states: "The object of the mission is to explore the Missouri River, whose course and communication with the Pacific may offer the most direct and practicable water connection across the continent for purposes of commerce."

Displays in the museum indicate the sort of equipment that would have been taken on the expedition: food stuffs, hatchets and other tools and blankets. Dioramas display what may have been seen along the way, among them group of stuffed beavers hard at work. Enormous stuffed animals, a longhorn bull, a buffalo and pinto horse, evoke images of the wild, windblown prairie.

Along one wall are excerpted passages from Clark's expedition diary. The group set out from just north of St. Louis on May 14, 1804, and did not return for more than two years. Along the way they collected specimens of animals, rocks and plants, and made careful notes of their observations en route to the Pacific.

Interspersed between Clark's entries are floor to ceiling color photographs of scenes the group encountered. Among them the Rocky Mountains, the Missouri River falls and the Pacific Ocean.

A portion of the museum is devoted to Indian artifacts: bows, arrows, clothing made of skins, moccasins and an enormous headdress of eagle feathers. There is a large replica of a Plains Indians' teepee, and a diorama depicts an Indian "bull" boat, made of buffalo hides, which was later adapted for use by the white man.

Of the plaques scattered throughout the exhibit, Mehrhoff said: "In the museum the only text is quotes from the Americans who in some way were part of the expansion. They tell their own story; the museum is the message."

Overhead, concentric circles, moving back decade by decade, indicate the year of events. "These circles symbolize the expanding horizons of the country," Mehrhoff said. "It's like ripples expanding in water, after a stone's been thrown in. The Louisiana Purchase was the stone that Jefferson threw in."

Two movies, "Time of the West" (35 minutes) and "Monument to a Dream" (28 minutes, about the building of the Arch), are shown in theaters adjacent to the museum. A nine-minute slide show of modern St. Louis also can be seen.

The museum is open daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and tours are available. Tram rides up in the Arch run between 9:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., but buy your tickets before touring the museum, because the wait is usually long. For more information, call (314) 425-4465.

Something... they don't learn in school!

We are proud to have the opportunity to provide young boys and girls with the responsibility of delivering our newspaper. Responsibility and financial management are two basics that are on the job training when a boy or girl accepts a newspaper delivery route. The responsibility is great because the entire effort of very talented people depends on their delivery of the newspaper on time no matter what weather conditions or other circumstances arise. Being an independent merchant he or she is responsible financially for the payment and collection of monies for newspapers delivered. We recognize the responsibilities both financial and job performance and we would like to congratulate the girls and boys who value this experience and do an excellent job of satisfying our customers.

Stormin' Norman becomes a whiner

By Dennis Barnidge

Staff affiliate

Shut up, Norm.

I go to sleep one night thinking Stormin' Norman Stewart, the cage curmudgeon of Columbia, has a firm grip on the reins of the Missouri basketball program. The next morning I wake up and find a yapping fishwife in charge of the Tigers.

What's the deal here?

Stewart used to be Woody Hayes. Lately, he's Woody Allen. He used to get most of his exercise fighting with referees, opponents, other coaches, his own players and the press.

Lately, the only thing he's exercising is the right to act like a west St. Louis County teenager in a suit because he can't use the BMW to go to the Michael Jackson blowout this weekend.

Any day now, I expect to hear he's opening a florist shop in Columbia: Norm's Days of Whine and Roses.

Stewart used to seethe, rumble, explode. Mt. St. Helens was a geological whim compared to a Stewart eruption.

Now, Stewart has given up erupting in favor of whining. For a while he said the piranhas of the press were causing unrest among the Tigers. Now, it's officials creating trouble.

In case you haven't been keeping track, the Tigers were supposed to have a real shot at a spot in the NCAA Final Four. Forget it. They've lost four of their last six and will be lucky to grab a Final Four spot in this weekend's Big Eight Conference Tournament.

Stewart says the problem is that Big Eight referees are picking on the Tigers. Ain't that nasty? Ain't that unfair? Ain't that terrible?

Ain't that about the biggest crock you ever heard?

Do officials miss calls? Do they make calls they shouldn't? Do officials give home teams a break and road teams a going over? Of course.

Is there anything about this year's basketball officiating that's even the tiniest bit different than in the 800 other seasons Stewart has coached at Missouri? Of course not.

What is different is that instead of growling, then getting on with the business at hand, this year Stewart is whining and moaning.

This team isn't 18-9 instead of 22-5 or 24-3 because of the Fates. The defending Big Eight champs aren't fourth-place clumps because of referees. The powerhouse that should have been is the powerhouse that isn't because somewhere along the line Stewart and the Tigers tripped over their own potential.

There have been ripples of trouble on Ol' Mizzou Lake all year. In the first few weeks of the season, it looked like starting positions were doled out according to who knew that day's secret word.

Next, there was the midseason stretch where the Americans Derrick Chevious, who might be starting in the NBA next year, couldn't hold a starting job with a middle-of-the-pack Big Eight team. Let's not forget the icy silence that passed for an explanation of whether it was an aching back or grade-point average that took starting guard Lynn Hardy off the team for two months.

Even in one of Mizzou's brightest moments — last week's overtime win over Oklahoma — there were weird doings. When Missouri had the lead and the ball with a few seconds left and Oklahoma swarming to foul any one who touched it, who did the Tigers push the ball to? They handed it to Hardy, who shoots free throws the way Stevie Wonder shoots skeet. Hardy missed and Oklahoma scored to send the game into OT.

So what's the deal? Don't ask me. I'm only here to offer food for thought. And don't ask Stewart. Unless, of course, you want a little whine with your food for thought.

Blues hope Hull's bloodlines pay off

By Jack Farmer

If you could use breeding to handicap hockey talent like you can with horses, the Blues may have landed a thoroughbred of great class Monday.

But the claiming price was steep as the Blues sent all-star defenseman Rob Ramage and veteran goaltender Rick Wamsley to the Calgary Flames for rookie right winger Brett Hull and winger Steve Bozek.

On Tuesday, the Blues sent defenseman Charlie Bourgeois and a 1989 third-round draft choice to Hartford in exchange for the Whalers' second-round choice in 1989. The Blues then acquired defenseman Gordie Roberts from Philadelphia in exchange for a fifth-round pick in this year's draft. If the Blues win their first-round playoff series this year, the Flyers would get a fourth-round pick instead.

Hull, son of hockey legend Bobby Hull, is in his first full season in the National Hockey League. In 52 games for Calgary, he scored 26 goals and 24 assists, ranking him third among NHL rookies. Hull, 23, saw limited ice time recently with the Flames, who have a surplus of scoring forwards.

In his St. Louis debut, Hull had an assist on Gino Cavallini's goal during the Blues' 3-2 win over Toronto on Tuesday.

In making the deal, Carson said he is "not worried about next year; next year is now," and that he was looking to improve the Blues' chances in the upcoming playoffs, particularly enhancing their ability to come from behind.

"Recently I've noticed that the Blues, while trailing, have a tough time coming back in the game in an attempt to win," Carson said. "I feel checking is hard work, but scoring is talent and skill. We're kind of short on scoring punch."

The feeling in acquiring Brett Hull is that he has the dimension to shoot and score and win a game for you. We had to give. In order to acquire a player of that dimension, you must give something that is wanted at the other end, and that's what we did."

The trade in the second blockbuster move has made with Calgary. On Feb. 1, 1986, the Blues sent popular right winger Joe Mullen and defenseman Terry Johnson and Rick Wilson to the Flames for wingers Gino Cavallini and Eddy Beers and defenseman Charlie Bourgeois.

Last season, for Moncton of the American Hockey League, the 5-11, 200-pound Hull became only the second rookie in the history of the league to score 50 goals. He had a total of 92 points in 67 games, including a 14-game goal scoring streak, which set a new AHL record. After scoring one goal in five games for the Flames in the regular season, he added two goals and one assist in four playoff contests.

"Brett Hull has the dimension to be a franchise player," Carson said. "The toughest type of player to find is a natural scorer. You've got a guy right now that has 26 goals in 52 games in very limited time. So not only do you have hopes of what he could achieve, but you know what he can give you now. And that's the reason why I feel Brett Hull is worth 1.1 don't know how many first-round (draft) picks."

Bozek, 27, also saw limited action this season due to a knee injury. He is reported to be fully recovered and played in 26 games with the Flames, scoring nine goals and adding seven assists. He is in his seventh professional season and is known for his speed and two-way play.

"Bozek is one of the fastest skaters in the game right now," Carson said. "And if we're going to play Denis Savard and his family (the Chicago Blackhawks, in the playoffs), we need (Blues center) Rick Meagher's legs, but we need some help, and I think Steve Bozek can play a big role in the playoffs."

Ramage, 29, was in his seventh season with the Blues and was the lone player from the team named to this year's All-Star Game. He had eight goals and 34 assists in 67 games this season. Ramage also was active off the ice in many community-related activities, including the Big Brothers program.

Ramage, who now plays for a legitimate Stanley Cup contender, said he was not surprised by the deal.

"The rumors were going to make some sort of deal," Ramage said. "My name has come up in the past. I guess if it comes up enough times, your number eventually gets called."

"It's a very positive move as far as my career is concerned, and that's what I'm playing this game for. From a personal standpoint, we have a home here and a lot of friends, both on the team and in particular outside of hockey — that we have made. But life's too short, careers are too short. The sun is shining here and I'm sure it's shining just as bright in Calgary."

Wamsley, 28, was in his fourth season with the Blues since being acquired from Montreal. This year he had a record of 13-16-1 and a 3.40 goals-against average.

In a related move, the Blues recalled goaltender Darrell May and defenseman Rob Whistle from the Peoria Rivermen of the International Hockey League.

literally and figuratively — coming off the bench.

Hohlt followed with four points sandwiched around a basket from Chris Stanczyk, who converted a stolen pass from Pace, and West led 39-27.

Biegler, who finished with a game-high 22 points, kept distance between West and Collinsville in the fourth quarter with five three-pointers to accompany five three-pointers nailed earlier in the game.

"In our previous games we guarded Collinsville fairly well, but we struggled to move the ball," West coach Roger Mueller said. "We didn't attack the basket, and that's what we tried to do tonight. We attacked the guards and challenged them rather than just playing catch around the perimeter."

On several occasions in the fourth quarter the Hawks were able to threaten West's lead on the strength of inspired play by senior guard Brad Keene.

With the Hawks trailing 43-34, Keene stole the ball at midcourt, drove for a layup and converted the free throw after being fouled on the play by Stanczyk.

round opponent, has one player committed to North Carolina State and another bound for Georgia Tech, so the Dutchmen will be up against a talented team.

As for Valentine and Wigfall, Harrington sees both of them as NCAA Division I prospects.

"Anthony has some schools looking at him and if Wilfred continues to make progress next year, he should be right there, too," Harrington said.

The regular title was BAC's second, but its first in Harrington's nine seasons. And they have done it with a large group of local players. Besides Valentine and Wigfall, other Dutchmen are Bethalto's Jamie Humphreys, Collinsville's Bob Ramage and Jon Sherry, Belleville's Thomas Moore and Mascoutah's John Throuvin.

"It was something we felt we had to do," Harrington said. "We needed to have local players to build some interest in the program."

Others like Sherman Igges, Reggie Warren and Jeff Sonhouse are from outside the area, but the Dutchmen have done it right — build a winning team with local players.
